

City Research Online

City, University of London Institutional Repository

Citation: Ogonek, E.A. (2017). The effect of text on compositional decisions. (Unpublished Doctoral thesis, Guildhall School of Music and Drama)

This is the accepted version of the paper.

This version of the publication may differ from the final published version.

Permanent repository link: https://openaccess.city.ac.uk/id/eprint/21242/

Link to published version:

Copyright: City Research Online aims to make research outputs of City, University of London available to a wider audience. Copyright and Moral Rights remain with the author(s) and/or copyright holders. URLs from City Research Online may be freely distributed and linked to.

Reuse: Copies of full items can be used for personal research or study, educational, or not-for-profit purposes without prior permission or charge. Provided that the authors, title and full bibliographic details are credited, a hyperlink and/or URL is given for the original metadata page and the content is not changed in any way.

City Research Online:

http://openaccess.city.ac.uk/

publications@city.ac.uk

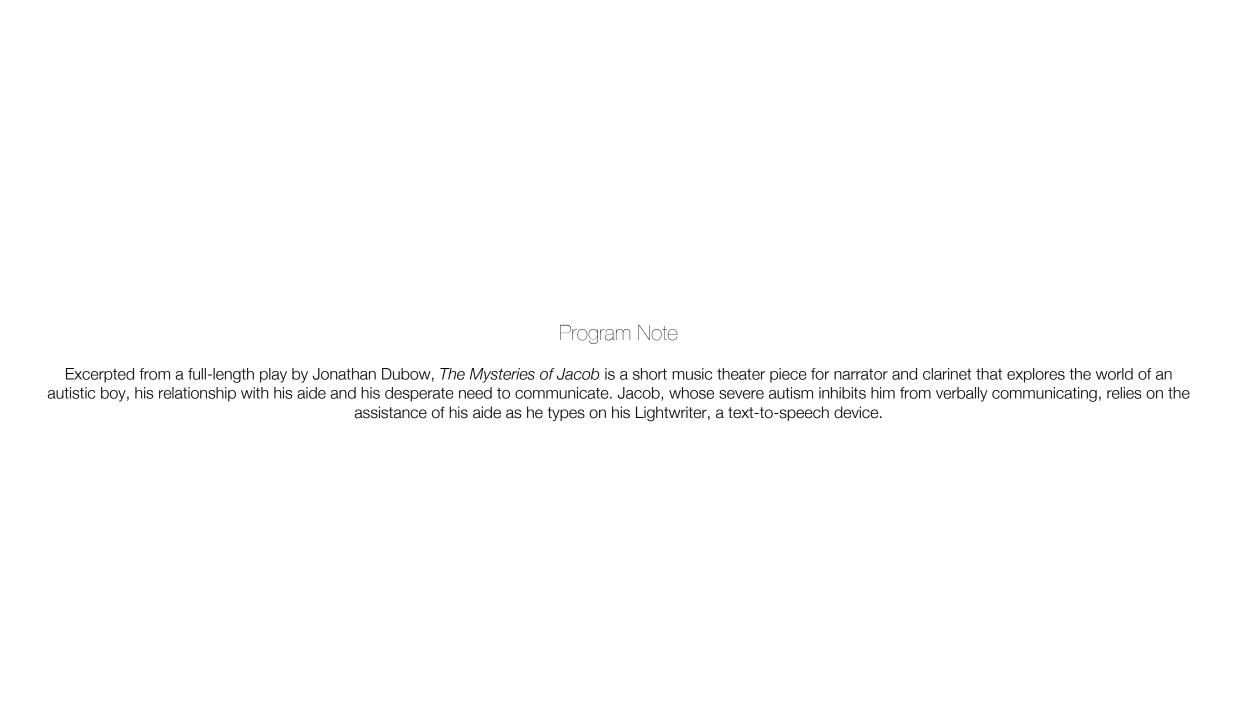

The Mysteries of Jacob

for narrator and clarinet (2014)

Elizabeth Ogonek

The Mysteries of Jacob for narrator and clarinet (2014)

Elizabeth Ogonek

Performance Note

The narration in The Mysteries of Jacob is notated in three different ways.

- 1) In episodes 1,2 and 5, the text is grouped by dotted barlines which indicate subphrases. The narration is to be spoken freely within the given phrase.
- 2) In episode 3, the text is meant to function percussively. The placement of the x-noteheads on the staff shows the contour of the words as they are to be performed.
- 3) Episode 8 is a combination of the previous two methods. While the narration is notated evenly, it is to be spoken as naturally as possible. The purpose of assigning rhythmic values to the text is to show that the word "word(s)" always occurs at the same time as a clarinet attack.

*It should be noted that while many of the narrated lines are Jacob speaking, they are intended to be representations of his words. Therefore, one should not adapt the character of an autistic person, nor should one attempt to reproduce the digitalized voice from the Lightwriter. A natural, animated delivery will elucidate the peculiarities of the text and expose the complexities of Jacob's character.

M = multiphonic

The Mysteries of Jacob

for narrator and clarinet (2014)

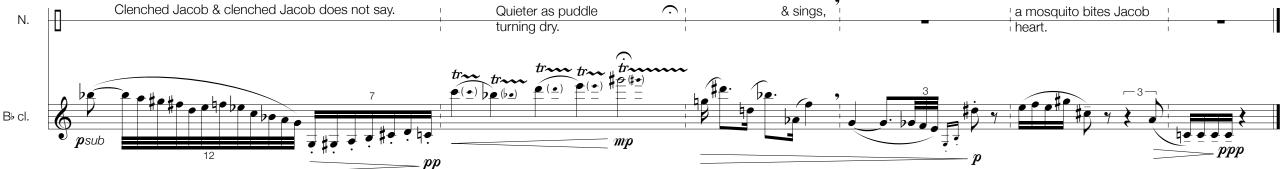

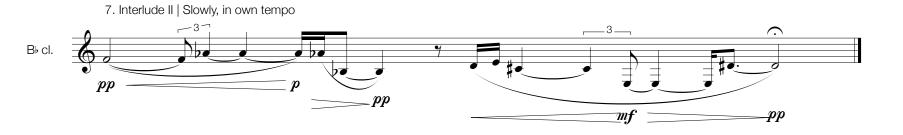

6. Aide He tells me he hates that he can never go out with his friends alone.

He tells me he wants to go for a walk by himself.

He tells me he wants to know whether or not he is smiling.

He tells me he has ESP when I hold his arm, that I close myself to him when I am full of stress.

He tells me that I will do great things with my life and he will be autistic forever. And he hates me because of this.

9. Aide What does it take to understand Jacob?

